AN EMINENT MAN DEAD -We regret to learn by the last European arrival that Henry Thomas Buckle, the celebrated author, died in the city of Damascus on the 31st of May. The Philadelphia Press says this announcement will create a deep feeling of grief throughout this country among those who believe in the principles he inculcated, as well as those who, disagreeing with him, still honor the genius, courage, and industry which the Secretary of the Treasury, showing the he manifested as a historian. Mr. Buckle was quantity and value of the different articles of merborn on the 24th day of November, 1823, at Lee, chandise imported into the United States from in the county of Kent, England. We are told that | British North American provinces under the Re for a very short time he attended school in a Kent- | ciprocity treaty, that the total value in 1859 was ish town, near London, where he was taught over $15,000,000, and in 1860 more than $12,500, the plainer branches of an English and classical 000, and in 1861 $21,000,000. The table show education. He does not seem to have been in any in the last year a falling off in fish, furs, fruits, other school of note, nor are we aware that any hides, and wools, an increase in animals, ashes, of the celebrated institutions claim him among bark, butter, cheese, coal, eggs, flax, flour, grain their alumni. his work entitled "The History of Civilization in England." It was a remarkable volume, and excited great attention, partly because of the novelty and boldness of his views, but principally because he surrounded them with a degree of eloquence and learning which few writers have exhibited. Based upon a theory of ekepticism, and discarding many of the oldest established principles of Christianity, its author became at once the ob ject of scorn and denunciation on the part of those joy on the part of those who disbelieved in Ravelation. The second volume was printed but recently, and as Mr. Buckle had not deviated from the plan set forth in his first work, but, on the contrary, carried out the theories he then adfore, there was still the same spirit and denunciation manifested by those who disagreed with his

Let us say as we will of Henry Thomas Buckle, he was a great man. Setting aside any sectarian view, he has written a book which will live. It is full of thought, of elequence, and study; and while we ourselves are far from agreeing in many of the strange and novel propositions he advances, we at all times read his chapters with profit and delight. "The History of Civilization," like Macaulay's History of England, was comon the earth, and it remains to us as a 10@15 cents a quart. splendid fragment of what the ambition of its author conceived, and to the completion of which the energy of his life was devoted. Our latest intelligence in relation to Mr. Buckle intimated that in the third volume of his work he would discuss civilization in North America. We should have read any theories he might have printed about us with unusual interest, and it is unprinted papers.

officers of the packet-ship David Hoadly, which vessel arrived at New York on Tuesday from Livrpool, report that they encountered upwards of fifty icebers during the passage, besides a great deal of floating ice. The ship Panama, also from Liverpool, brings a similar report. The presence of these large masses of ice on our coast probably account, in some measure, for the extraordinary backwardness of the season. The nights and mornings in June are rarely so cold as now. Numerous bergs and fields of ice from the Arctic seas, breaking up and drifting down with the current of the Gulf Stream, have a tendency to produce such effects.

DISLOYAL TEACHERS. I see from the Journal, of which I am a conand comfort to its enemies, is entitled to the ben- stant reader, that the Trustees of the Public Schools of Louisville have decided to emply none but loyal teachers. This is a most wise and important decision. Why should the youth of the city be allowed to be subjected to the insidious and pernicious training of the enemies of the State and national government! To keep an army of nearly three quarters of a million in the tented field to fight and put down disloyalty, and, at the same time, allow an army of traitorous teachers to sow and cultivate at will the seeds of treason in the minds of the youth of the country behind them, is an idea inconceivably absurd and most fatally ruinous to the prospects of a restored loyalty to the government. The writer has had ample opportunity for observing the effects produced by disloyal teachers during the past eighteen months in Kentucky upon the youth under their care. The poison of disunion has been most assiduously and, in some places, most successfully infused into the youthful mind by secessionists and secession sympathizers in the various departments of education In some places the trustees of chartered institutraitors, and no teacher or professor of loyal sentiments can receive an appointment from them. I know some, who are now organizing their corps of instructors with special reference to their disloyal purposes. I have examined three female

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI.—The correspondent of he St. Louis Republican, writing from the mouth of White river, Ark., the 11th inst., says: The fleet left its anchorage early Friday morning, and proceeded on its mission to "open up" the A battery had, early in this contest, been con-structed immediately above Helena, mounting eight small guns, but we met no resistance there.

Helona is—well, an Arkansas river town—the same may be said of Napoleon; and it is fortunate nothing like such a description applies to any other river towns. One steamboat was at the wharf-boat, and that fired up rapidly and ran. We could see quite a crowd of gazers upon the streets, and a score or two of equestrians were making rapid progress into the country. I guess they had heard that the people of Missouri had not burned their hemp crops.

they had heard that the psople of Missouri had not burned their hemp crops.

The Mound City, Capt. Kelty, being in the lead, fired half a dozen shots at the retreating steamboat, but she had got such a start that they fell short. Capt. Wells's tug Spiteful was then sent after her, but was forced to give up the chase at the end of a dozen miles. The Lexington continued the chase and went almost to the mouth of White river before she gave over the pursuit. The retreating boat is supposed to be the Clara Dolson, one of the most splendid and fast boats extant. Altogether it was a most exciting epis-

Dolson, one of the most splendid and fast boats extant. Altogether it was a most exciting episode in the log books of the flest.

A few miles below Helena we passed Friar's Point, a nest of as foul secessionists as can be found in Mississippi. A little more than a year ago, the people got full of whisky ard secessionism, and hanged three of their fellow citizens for the crime of being loyal to the Union. Not content with this, they barreled up the victims and rolled them into the Mississippi river. This is a fact.

I omitted to notice yesterday a fict of some interest to river men. Daring the recent high water, the St. Francis took to herself a new mouth, and now comes almost on a tangent with the Mississippi. In this change the old town of Sterling has nearly been "finished." All of its dwellings, except perhaps half a dozen, have turn bled into the water; and the dwellings of the dead as well—the graveward that contained the dead as well—the graveyard that contained the dead of twenty years—met the same fate. The town, as old river men will remember, originally was half a mile higher up; but it has gradually caved off and been perseveringly rebuilt till this year, when there are not enough houses or people eft to start a new town or graveyard.

Such is history on this ever changing Missisippi. An Island remains below the old mouth, to that the stream has really two mouths. I have learned a fact about the Yazoo that I did not before know. After running up many valuable craft, the rebels have blocked up its mouth by by sicking old barges, etc. The same informant assures me that the Quitman is really as of the things that were. A Union man assures me also, that there was but one best in the

as of the things that were. A Union man assures me, also, that there was but one boat in the St. Francis—the Carroll. At White River Island the Lula, a stern wheeler, is aground. I know not where she belongs. Not a rank of wood have I yet seen. Whether the choppers refuse to cut sticks for the secessionists, or have "cut sticks" for the war, I know not; but certain it is there is no wood on the banks below Memphis. Steamboats above must not rely on finding much for a month yet. onth yet.

While making a critical examination of the St.

While making a critical examination of the St. Louis to-day, noting her ballscars and iron patchings, of which she has a very large show, Mr. Kendrick pointed cut to me a German gunner, and related a story that is worth telling.

At the Fort Henry fight this brave fellow was very actively engaged when a shot struck near the port hole and filled his face with splinters, headas knecking him over. In a mement he besides knocking him over. In a mement he jumped up, exclaiming, "Now, boys, I bees wounded—I bees mad—so you loads him so much better as you can, and I sends de ball zat shall give 'em hell." And he did aim some terrible and telling shots till the fight was over. And among the men he is not the only one of whom among the men he is not the only one of whom anecdotes of sailor bravery cannot be told.

About twenty-five miles above White river, it being night, we had a grand exhibition of fireworks, some fool of a planter burning at least a ccuple hundred bales for our amusement. The floating cotton in the river, the charred bits on the hank exercited the restrict the writerality of the bank, everywhere attest the universality of the fanatical and destructive spirit of secessionism. A few miles above the mouth of White we had a little "laughing place" in our too monotonous journey. The Quartermaster put his long glass to his eye to examine a group on the shore, whereupon they flad incontinently! As a general thing, however, we do not see such timidity. eral thing, however, we do not see such timidity. The ladies frequently salute us with waving of handkerchiefs, and the negroes bow and often clap their hands in delight. I think I have some of the darkies exclaim: "Dere comes de Linkums! and permanent cures are constantly being effected at the Infirmary.
YOUNG MEN, TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.—
Dr. H. devotes much of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret habit which ruins both body and mind, anfitting the unfortunate individual for either business or society. The sad effect of these early habits, or the excess of riper years, are to weaken and debilitate the constitution, destroy the physical and mental powers, diminish and enfeeble the natural feelings, and exhaust the vital energies of manhood: the pleasures of life are marred, the object of marriage frustrated, and existence itself rendered a term of uncasing misery and regret. Such persons, especially those contemplating marriage, should lose no time in making immediate application, as Dr. H., by his new treatment, is enabled to insure a speady and permanent cure.

"THE UNION ELEMENT."-Under this head the Boston Post has some remarks which we earnestly commend to Congress and to the people both South and North. The remarks are fitted to guide the one section and to assure the other.

We quote the remarks prominently. "Every manifestation of the Union element in the infected States," says the Post, "shows that all that is needed to evoke it largely is really constitutional policy on the part of the loyal States. A fresh evidence of this is seen in the Nashville demonstration. It is a gross calumny and malice of the abolitionists. Thus much is on the true patriotism that characterized it to due to our Northern brethren, to ourselves, allege that its object was to screen the rebel leaders or to tamper with the rebellion in any way; for no severer denunciation can be found of the secession leaders than the speakers uttered, and no firmer course against them is seen anywhere than that pursued by Governor Johnson. Still, he denounces the radicalism of the times as severely as any public man now on the stage. All that the Union men in Tennessee or elsewhere ask is simple fidelity to the Constitution.

" the national life may be said to hang on this thread; and fortunate for the cause of republican institutions, it is not a brittle thread, but of strength equal to the day. The Constitution, as an embodiment of the national sentiment of the country, is what the greates intellects in the world have eulogized, and what "the plain people" can appreciate. Its value is attested in ways innumerable in the past, and all that is necessary to produce new triumphs for it, is for true and loyal men, South and North, East and West, to break away from old party prejudices and attachments that stand in the way of Union on its basis; to rally as one man against Secession and Radicalism, North or South; to turn out of the council halls, from those of the village to those of the nation, all who are hostile to this instrument. This is the party and this name "Henry" was inadvertently misprinted for the work for this great hour.

"The people, in all their political action, 17th Kentucky regiment, one of the most galought to be careful to distinguish between lent, accomplished, and meritorious officers in hypocrites and true men; between those who the service. We in those remarks mentioned call themselves Union men and those who are that Col. Burbridge's regiment was in the enin reality Union men. For politicians to gagement at Fort Donelson; but in this we stand up in or out of Congress and profess to were mistaken, as that fine command, we are be Union while apologizing for rebellion; or assured, was then in another division of the osed and denounced by Judges Collamer and Fort Donelson were the 17th, Col. McHenry homas, or the despotic measure of annihi ting the States, voted for, to their eternal sgrace, by so many Republican members; or was brilliant, and it was so represented in the mion schemes. If their authors really lesired to effect an eternal separation; to arms have prevailed doubly sullen; to destroy the salutary effect of every Union demonstration in the South like that at Nashville, they could hardly go to work in a way better calcu lated to produce these results. Indeed the opinion is gathering strength, that the promoters of these radical measures, that are plainly utside of the Constitution, design the estab-

in concert with the leaders of the rebellion. South, really mean to perpetuate the old Union tablish the authority of the Constitution over in the spirit in which the fathers interpreted it. North of Mason and Dixon's line. We beg provisions. Nor can the heart of man desire | be so kind as to hurry it up? eater progress than can be attained under its ble guarantee of order and republican law." These remarks are sound in doctrine, admi

We say prudent in expression, because, while exposing and denouncing the doctrines and neasures of the abolitionists, they guard careof the secessionists; in short, they exclude the conclusion of disloyal sympathies, which the radicals of the North are ever ready to draw the latter to the New Albany Ledger, Beaure from the simple denunciation of their heresies. The Post, indeed, is habitually guarded in this lypse speaks of "the number of the beast," respect, never suffering its readers to forget the ess of abolition. It doesn't weaken its case by ignoring or cloaking either half of the double-headed enormity that is convulsing the land and drenching it in fraternal blood. It exhibits the case in its integrity. This is not an unimportant rule, and we are glad to see that in general the conservative journals of beat Banks's time, two to one. the North observe it with more or less care. Carelessness on this point is clearly bad journalism, inasmuch as it plays into the hands of both the secessionists and the abolitionists. thereby serving to contravene the great end in its twofold aspect. Nor is this rule of integrity of less importance to the loyal journalists of the South than it is to their brethren of the North. Nor dare we flatter ourselves that the rule is observed with greater caution by us than it is by them. The local adversaries of the conservatives of the North are the abolitionists; the local ad- of genius may find only himself there: versaries of the conservatives of the South are the secessionists. While it is natural for our Northern brethren, in the heat of their direct struggle with the abolitionists, sometimes to lose sight rather too much of the secessionists, it is equally natural for us, in the heat of our direct and more deadly struggle with the seces. sionists, sometimes to lose sight in like meas ure of the abolitionists; and doubtless we yield to the common tendency as often and as injuriously as our brethren of the North do. We do not propose to go into an inquiry on this head. We desire only to point out the eommon tendency, as one to be cautiously watched and firmly resisted alike in both sec-

The true rule is the rule of integrity to which we have adverted. Let neither of the two grand elements of the question be lost sight of in either section. The question, so vitally are its elements related, cannot South or North be sundered without crippling the cause of the government. In the North, the abolitionists alone cannot be fought so well as the secessionists and the abolitionists together, as, in the South, the secessionists alone cannot be fought so well as the abolitionists and the secessionists together; for the conservatives of the North, in fighting the abolitionists alone, expose themselves to the cry of secessionism, which aids the abolitionists and comforts the secessionists, as the conservatives of the South, in fighting the secessionists alone, expos hemselves to the cry of abolitionism, which aids the secessionists and comforts the abolitionists, whereas, when both are fought together neither derives any advantage from the odium of the other, while each is left to stagger under the weight of its own. Let both be fought

What is "In the Dark"? The reader who does not take with him the dark-lantern [For the Louisville Journal.]

IN THE DARK. Hush! was there anything in the Dark-Like a whisp-r or cry, in the Dark? "O Darling-my Darling!" were the words that seem To be breathed in my ear; but I must bave dreamed; It was only a dream I know—but hark!
Is there anything, anything more in the dark?

"O Darling-my Darling!" again in the Dark. As it used to be in the Dark! And fingers of spirit-like tenderness Are intertwined lovingly with my tress; I know it is all but a dream—but hark!

Is there anything—anything more in the dark?

"O, Darling!"-again and again, in the Dark-Like a whisper of love in the Dark!

And then, as of old, his brave arm seems To fold me up in his loving dreams—
I know that it never will be—but hark! Is there anything—anything more in the dark?

Ah-yes! there is something more in the Dark-Something—all alone—in the Dark—All alone, in the dark, am I— And sick unto death-but I cannot die And I must not die-but hark, O, hark!

There is something more now in the Dark! Here in my bosom it pleads, "Don't die!" ire? Yes! and a little cry!-A little forlorn and forsaken spark,

That will soon go out in the rain and the dark! O come to me-come to me! here in the Dark-As you used to-you know-in the Dark! And call me your "dear little wife" once more-Just as you did in the days of yore-And kiss me-and bless me-and Oh-but hark! There is nothing more—nothing more in the Dark!

AFFAIRS IN MEMPHIS .- The editor of the Cincinnati Gazette has had a conversation with a gentleman who has resided in Memphis for some time past, and is pretty well informed as to the character of the leaders of the rebellion. The destruction of property is opposed by the masse of the people; and it is rarely that any one destroys his own cotton, but the leaders are reckless desperate, and despotic. The prominent men have pretty generally feathered their own nests, and whether the rebellion succeeds or not, they have a plan for taking care of themselves. In the event of success they can settle down and live swimmingly on the fruits of their plunder, while in the event of defeat, they can leave the country with their pockets full. Their aim is, if forced to give up, to raduce the whole country to a perfect wreck and leave nothing behind but ruins and a distressed people. The most roisy and structive classes are those who never owned anything, and are anxious for any opportunity to plunder. It was with the greates difficulty that these adventurers were prevented from destroying Memphis, and having been defeated in their wishes and fled from the city on the approach of the Union army, they now de nounce it as an aboli ion hole. No one who did not see and hear and feel for himself has any idea of the reign of terror that prevailed in Memphis and that still prevails where the rebal military has control. Even now, with Federal soldiers in Memphis and New Orleans, enough desperate characters remain to keep Union people in a state of terror. Hence, many who are for the Government and love the flag, are cautious about ex pressing their veiws. Those only who have lived in the rebel States, and who now witness the lenient treatment of rebe's by our Generals, can fully appreciate the position of the passive people MORE BUSHWHACKING IN OWEN COUNTY.

Passengers to this city by the Lexington train or Saturday evening brought intelligence of another rebel outrage in Owen county on Friday. A precinct meeting was held about twenty-two miles from Berry's Station to nominate delegates to the Union Convention to assemble yesterday at Owenton. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon, a come of the citizens composing this primary meeting were returning home, they were fired upon from a clump of bushes. Five of them were killed outright and several others wounded. When the news was made known at Berry's Station fifty of the Home Guard started for the scene of the outrage. Fifty more went from Boyd's Station, and from Lexington Col. Warner. of the 18th Kentucky, sent one hundred picked men. The assassins will no doubt be caught and properly punished.

TRADE AND FINANCE.

Nothing has occurred in financial circles since our last to materially alter the condition of the market, and business of every kind still progresses in an exceedingly languid and unsatisfactory manner. There were no commercial or mortgage executions to be found at any time in the bard of ecurities to be found at any time in the hands of ellers, and the bank movement was almost ex-usively restricted to full or partial renewals of naturing obligation, while transactions in specind uncurrent money were, if anything, still maller than heretof re, and operations in ex-hange were confined to trifling negotiations in sterling bills at 30 per cent. premium, and is francs at four francs per dollar for city and bank with copies of the official reports to General

ONTRACTORS HELD TO THEIR OBLIGATIONS

Gen. Shepley, military commandant of New cleans, has taken the city contractors in hand. and holds them to their contrac's, thus providing for the clearliness, and consequently the health the city. The True Delta says: In connection with the resolutions providin or the employment of laborers to clean and re-air the paved and unpaved streets and gutters of a city, was one authorizing the annulling of all outracts for the performance of that work, with contracts for the performance of that work, with the consent of the parties having or holding the same. This resolution called forth some inquiry and explanation, during which it was stated that the contracts might as well be annulled, as no contractor for cleaning and repairing the streets had ever strictly complied with the terms of his contract; and that to have done so would have broken any man who undertook it. This, then, accounts for the too frequent neglected condition of the streets and gutters. If this be the case (and we have no reason to doubt it), the sconer such a system of contracting is broken up the better. It is wrong in principle and injurious in such a system of contracting is broken up the better. It is wrong in principle and injurious in practice; and gives rise to the grave suspicion that these contracts have only been given as largesses to favorites. But it appears that General Shepley, who exercises the veto power, does not understand this system of doing business, and has returned to the board in which it originated this annulling resolution, with his objections thereto. He is in favor of holding contractors to their obligations, no matter how ruinous their terms may be. This will be hard on the contractors, if what is said of their contracts be true. is said of their contracts be true. The letter of Gen. Shepley to the Common

SWINDLING.
Under the head of "Cancelling Contracts," the vening True Delta of the 11th says: For a long time past the contract system, like all other branches of city government, was a maless fraud and infamous deception, used for the enrichment of aldermen, assistant aldermen organizers of the shoulder hitting and Thug fra ternity, and the canaille which kept watch and ward over the possession of the spoils. By means of it the post of alderman and assistant alderman became a more lucrative berth by far than that of the Chief Justiceship of the State, and a place on the Streets and Landings Committee is vastly more remunerative in shrewd hands than the Presidency of the country.

Twenty-three officers and a crew of over cushundred and seventy-five escaped unhurt. The scene which ensued was horrible. Many of the crew were frantic from their injuries and jumped everboard, and some drowned. Boats from the Conestoga coming up at the time to the support of the Mound City, sent them relief, but the rebels fired on the men in the water with grape and canister from field pieces, murdering most of those trying to escape. Learning the position of affairs at the river, Ccl. Fitch drew his right, pushed forward and carried the fort by storm at the point of the bayonet. The rebel works consisted of two batterits, the lower one mounting six field pieces and the upper one three heavy s'ege guns, 50 pcs printed Satinet; 10 pcs Wool Cassimere; r. Prints, Under-Shirts. Linen Shirts, Silk and Handkerchiefs, Canes, &c. At 11 o'clock, a large lot of READY-MADE CLOTH-NG, all kinds of Cloth, Luster, Carsimere, Linen, Mar-eilles, and Drilling Coats, Vests, and Pants.

ST. LOUIS June 22. Gen. Schofield, commanding the Federal forces in Missouri, has issued an order holding rebels and rebel sympathizers responsible in their property, and, if need be, in their persons for damages hereafter committed by guerillas or marauding arties in this State. Five thousand dollars very soldier or Union citizen killed, from $1,000 to $5,000 for every one wounded, and the full value of all property destroyed or stolen by the guerillas, will be assessed and collected from the class of persons above mentioned residing in the vicinity of the place where the act is committed. The sum thus collected will be paid to the legal heir of the soldier or citizen killed, or the person murdered, or the rightful owner of the property The steamer Heze, from Newbern on the 17th, and Hatteras on the 18th, has arrived. All regiments of Mexican volunteers have been Messrs. Graham and Fish, who went to Memphis from Evansville to recpen the Adama Express office at the former place, have returned Evansville. The Journal says that it took them but a few hours to "see the elephant" in all sts at Memphis. The wealthiest portion of the itizens left the city when they saw the rebel gunboats defeated, and the poorer class is making every exertion to collect funds to also get away and come North. The most extravagant prices ates that Price has gone to Richmord to tender are asked for everything. The Express Company pays $300 a month rent for a very ordinary room, and Mr. Graham was compelled to pay $3 a day for board, and furnish his own sleeping apartment. Most of the business houses were closed, and complete stagnation of all kinds of business had taken place. The people seemed to make little difference in their charges, whether you proposed paying them in gold, Tennessee rotes or Confederate scrip. They seemed to think they could get whatever they demanded, and their denands were accordingly high. Mr. Grabam thinks some of the gentlemen who rushed into Memphis for the purpose of speculating, will get their fingers burnt. Sugar and molasses were held at as figures in Memphis as in Evansville, and to buy it for money was exceedingly unprofitable. Monarchy left behind it in this country (Mexico) neither the immense interests of a secular nobility, as happens in Europe when by the violence of a revolutionary hurricane some throne is overturned, nor did it leave moral interests or anything which would cause the present generation to desire the re-establishment of monarchy, which it never knew, and which nobody nor anything has taught it to desire or respect.

It will be easy for your Majesty to conduct Prince Maximilian to the capital and crown him King; but this King will find in the country nother support than that of those conservative leaders who, when in power, never thought of establishing a monarchy, but contemplate it now that they are beaten, scattered, and in exile.

The General further cautions the Emperor that foreign monarch must fall from a Mexican throne "the day that the imperial mantle of France ceases to shield him." and frankly declares that the spirit of the nation will rebel against a radical change in its institutions. Warnings like these, coming from a Spanish General, who is not more famous than his government for tenderness towards individuals or nations, must produce a decided effect. After the defeat of the French arms in Mexico and the disruption of the alliance, this testimony of a competent witness carries added weight.

THE FORT DABLING OR DRURY'S BLUFF FIGHT.—There has been much anxiety expressed in reference of the failure to the iron-plated steamor Galena to operate successfully against the rebe batteries on the James river, below Richmond. The New York Times publishes the following letter from Lieutenant Wm. N. Jeffers, commander of the Monitor, relating to the affair at Drury's Bluff, hitherto wrongly considered in many quarant digression. Bluff, hitherto wrongly considered in many quarters a disastrous repulse, whereas it was nothing but a reconnoissance in force, and test of the Galena's yet untried powers, and in reality an action reflecting the highest credit upon our officers and seamen. Lieut. Jeffers's object is to give a faithseamen. Lieut. Jeffers's object is to give a faithful portraiture of the entire engagement, in which he had taken an active part; to render honor to whom honor is due, and to counteract false impressions which had got abroad, investing one gallant commander with merits that manifestly belonged to another. We leave our readers to draw their own conclusions from the letter, merely asserting that it is the clearest and most satisfactory account which we have yet seen of the action at Fort Darling. The Times also says if any corroboration were needed to testimony coming from so high a source as the gallant commander of the Monitor, it might add that Lieut. Morris, the commander of the Cumberland when she went down, has sent the amplest indorsement of every statement in Lieut. Jeffers's letters. He commanded the Port Reyal during the engagement at Fort Darling. The letter is dated.

UNITED STATES BATTERY MONITOR, \( \) ful portraiture of the entire engagement, in which United States Battery Monitor, James River, June 9, 1862.

I find in the daily journals of June 6th, under date of Washington, June 5th, the following item of news:

Upon the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury, the President has complimented First Lieut. D. C. Constable, commanding the revenue steamer E. A. Stevens, by handing him personally a commission as Capta'n in the revenue cutter service, in recognition of his gallautry in leading with his steamer the attacking forces in the recent ascent of the James river, and the bombardment of Fort Darling.

Second Lieut. J. W. Wilson has also been promoted to a First Lieutenancy for gallant bearing in the same action.

Although a newspaper paragraph may appear to be a slender foundation for so long a letter, yet as I have frequently during this war seen such assumptions, when uncontroverted, come to be admitted as facts, I beg leave to make in your columns the following contribution to the truth ee that none of the credit due is misappropri-The E. A. Stevens did not lead the attacking forces at the bombardment of Fort Darling, nor at any other time or place, when under fire.

On several occasions, on arriving at shallow places, she was sent shead, on account of her light draught, to sound, and, when necessary, to plant buoys.

The morning of the battle, the Galena led, followed by the Monitor, and, at some distance, by the Aroostook, Port Royal, and B. E. Stevens.

Just before the Galena anchored, at a distance (according to Commander Rodgers' estimate) of 600 yards below the batteries, the enemy opened fire. The Moni or soon coming up Commander Rodgers directed her to pass ahead, and, shortly afterward—on the Galena getting into position—she did so; but finding that her guns could not be brought to bear, the Monitor then dropped down below the Galena, and, after some mangavring for a suitable position, came to anchor nearly midfor a suitable position, came to anchor nearly mid-way between the Galena and the shore. Nevertheless he led in that vessel, and sustained the action at close quarters for four hours, only ceasing on the exhaustion of his ammunition; an action unexcelled for the judgment and gallantry displayed, and, though unsuccessful, yet not a repulse, for nothing further than a reconnoissance in force and a trial of the Galbraic Academic and a trial of the Galbraic and the galbrai in force, and a trial of the Galena's armor, was

It is not the intention of this letter to, in any way, detract from the gallantry of Captain Constable; it is simply to state facts. No doubt it would have sforded him great satisfaction to have led the quadron, if he had thought his little vessel could have sustained the fire for five minutes; and he must feel quite chagrined at being placed, by the telegraph, where he was ing placed, by the telegraph, where he was

From the Richmond Whig, June 14.] VERY LATE FROM RICHMOND.

REBEL VIEWS OF MCCLELLAN'S CAMPAIGN.

The brilliant operations of Gen. Jackson in the valley of the Shenandoah, crippling and dispersing the forces of Milroy and Schenck at McDowell, of Banks at Front Royal and Winchester, of Fremont at Cross Keys, and Shields at Port Republic, have had a wide-reaching and important bearing on the war. These several corps were to have been consolidated and brought across the Blue Ridge en route for Richmond. When they reached the Rappahannock, McDowell, with his Fredericksburg army, was to fall into line, and the united columns were to be precipitated on the devoted city from the north. At the same time, it is probable Burnside was expected to be on hand from the south, advancing up the south side of the James from the direction of Suffolk, in conjunction with the Monitor and its consorts in the river. The capital being thus assailed from the north and south, McClellan was to make the grand attack from the east, in front.

The plan was a gigantic one, and, in ail probability, would have succeeded, but for the masterly movements of Jackson, completely paralyzing the Valley force, and compelling McDowell to detach a large portion of his army to save Banks and company from demolition, and their capital from capture. Thus left without coperation and succor, McClellan is afraid to strike. Within sound almost of the charch bells of Richmond, within sight almost of the long-coveted freasure, a sudden disappointment strikes him, a REBEL VIEWS OF MCCLELLAN'S CAMPAIGN.

Within sound almost of the charch bells of Riccamond, within sight almost of the long-coveted treasure, a sudden disappointment strikes him, a cold tremor seizes him, and he skulks and hides himself like a craven in the dismal marshes of the Chickahominy—one day sending to Washington a braggart and mendacious bulletin of what his invincible army has done and is about to do, and the next bawling with all his might for reinforcements. For the present, at least, he is cornered by the bold dash of Jackson—the next move should be a checkmate. ove should be a checkmate.

DARK PROSPECTS FOR RICHMOND. [From the Richmond Daily Examiner, June 14.] It is uncertain whether McClellan's army has allen back to a fortified camp in the rear of his fallen back to a fortified camp in the rear of his first position or further; and as the art and practice of making reconnoissance in force seems to be unknown to military men in America, and the Confederates have not gotten so far in French as to understand the use of balloons, there is probably little information worthy of reliance in the possession of any person or persons in Richmond. One thing is manifest, that McClellan is not attacking the Confederate lines or operating against the city. As he came here for these purposes, and as he published to all mankind the intention an important digression.

The fact is, that the Federal Government at this moment is in a more difficult position than it has ever been before, running greater danger than it has incurred since Manassas, and passing a worse strait than that to which the Confederacy was lately brought. It is now manifest that the Government at Washington is aware of its condi-

WHAT THEY THINK OF THE NORTHERN "VAN-DALS." [From the Richmond Daily Examiner, June 14.]

From the Richmond Daily Examiner, June 14.]
Thanks to their own acts, performed already in New Orleans, Nashville, Norfolk, Kentucky, Tennessee, the Southern people now know what subjugation means. Even if the people of the Confederate States were the worst race of cowards that ever disgraced the face of the earth, the Northern Congress has been kind enough to do for us what renders cowardice a source of strenth. That Congress has prepared before our axes all That Congress has prepared, before our eyes, all the implements and engines of torture—the abolition, the negro intercourse, the confiscation law, the whole machinery of judicial murder and robbery to be inflicted on the South; laws before which every man of us has forfeited his life and benefit his family of property, enactments which bereft his family of property; enactments which reduce an entire people to the condition of hewers of wood and drawers of water for the Yankee apof history.

The navy has reaped none of the substantial rewards of glorious deeds in the way of promotion. It is therefore incumbent on each member of it to see the none of the credit deed. dy Johnsons, the Butlers, and the Stanlys.

Congress has left no doubt as to the consequences

Congress has left no doubt as to the consequences of subjugation. With pleased malignity and diabolical confidence, it has arranged before our eyes its racks, thumbscrews, gibbets, axes, pincers. The hangmen stand at ease, full in view, waiting with folded arms the moment when the military work is ended, and the judicial business begins. The Congress of Washington has shut the doors on cowardice. If all the South were overrun but one only county, defended by one solitary com any of infantry, it would hold together and figh to the death, rather than live to endure the mis erable fate prepared for those who can neither win liberty or gain an honorable death.

THE GLORY OF SKEDADDLING. (From the Richmond Whig. June 14.) Perhaps the most embarrassed and worst stulti fied man now in the war is Halleck, since the evacuation of Corinth by Beauregard. Carefully avoiding a battle after the lesson of Shilob, Hal-During this time the Arcostock was under way, but soon found the moment she left the cover of a small point, the enemy opened upon her with great precision. She therefore dropped anchor close in shore, her hull sheltered considerably by the low bank fringed with scattered trees and bushes, and about 500 yards below the Galena, as estimated by her commander.

The E. A. Stevens was still further below, and seldom if ever visible from the battery. The third screen of trees which fringed the bank permitted her to see the battery, but rendered the Stevens's position very indistinct, if visible at all.

The Port Royal lay still further below, in the only position in which she could bring her guns to bear.

From my position to windward, clear of smoke, I could observe every shot fired by both parties; leck had, with infinite labor and outlay, molecular only position in which she could bring her guns to bear.

From my position to windward, clear of smoke, I could observe every shot fired by both parties; and, with the aid of a very powerful glass, generally see on which vessel the fort's guns were trained. The enemy very judiciously refrained from firing at the Monitor (not over two shots being fired while the Galens was within range), and relying on their cool judgment in this matter, I sat in one of the turret scuttles, to better observe the effect of my own and other vessels' fire.

The coup de grace, just when the triggers were to be sprung and the trap to fall, the willy Creole waved his magic wand, and his army was gone as if by enchantment.

Morning came—the morning, perchance, that was to make Halleck immortal—and when his sentinels loked out, they saw not even the dust of the retreating foe. A vast army, with its countless acjuncts and accompaniments, its artillery, amunition, stores, with even its sick and helpoloserve the effect of my own and other vessels' fire.

ter, I sat in one of the turret scuttles, to better observe the effect of my own and other vessels fire.

I therefore venture to assert that not a single shot was fired from the fort at the E. A. Stevens during the action. The firing from the fort was very deliberate, and the moment a shot whizzed past me I turned to observe the effect on my comrades in the rear.

No, sir; the whole credit of that action belongs to Commander John Rodgers. He believed, as I did, that the armor of the Galena was readily penetrable by shot from the class of guns we were likely to find on the battery. This, however, being but an opinion, required a trial to verify its truth. He knew, from ocular demonstration, that the barrier was impassable unless the battery was reduced, and that batteries placed in such favorable positions could not be reduced by the gunboats alone, if resolutely defended.

That they would be so defended he had a guarantee in the knowledge that the guns were manned by the best artillerists in the world-seamen—commanded by officers late of the navy of the United States.

Nevertheless he led in that vessel, and sus; ained to hostile parties, it can convey armed yessels only, and although they have New Orleans and the principal strategic positions above it, they have not driven the Confederates from many hundred miles of its shores, whence they can stop trade and passage as completely as by the guns of fort Pillow or Columbus.

The fall of New Orleans and the consequent conquest of the Mississippi was a heavy blow to the Confederacy, and diminishes its resources for supplies. But it is far from being irretrievable. The recovery of that river will be as easy as its loss. Victories in the North will compel the United States to recall its troops, even if the yellow fever does not do its work, in the next sixty days, so effectually as to leave none to recal New armies will be formed in the States which order that river, which will retake New Or leans. No treaty of peace is possible which would leave the river in the hands of the North, An effort will be made to render the great city at its mouth a free town, like Hamburg and Breat its mouth a free town, like Hamburg and Bremen; but it will be an indecisive war and a drawn battle only which will render the project possible. The people of the Mississippi, country and town, are entirely Southern, bitterly hostile to the United States, and, without an exception, resolved forever to be constituent parts of the Confederacy. If the Confederacy lives, it will be impossible to give that river and its valley any political connection other than nature ordains for it. Beyond the separation from Texas and Arkansas, and the loss of the cattle supply we might obtain from that source, its present possession by the enemy is of, no real importance in the actual war or in the future condition of the country.

New York, June 21. The Government has no official intelligence firming the report of the capitulation of Fort Morgan, near Mobile.

[Tribune's Corresponder SEVEN PINES, June 18.

At noon to-day intelligence was communicated from the front that the enemy, 30,000 strong, was in line before Hooker's advanced position. At half-past four o'clock, under Gen. Hooker's order, the 16:h Massachusetts went into the deep, swampy word, and other regiments took up lines of battle upon the edge of the timber, out of which burst upon us in unequal numbers and death on the 31st of May. The musketry fire was soon sharp within the leafy fastness—sharp and death on the 31st of May. The musketry are was soon sharp within the leafy fastness—sharp and strong. Brampall's battery sent spherical case shot over the word into the rebel picket ground to assist the infantry skirmishers. This artillery fire was not replied to for a half hour, and then only from the far right.

It was Armstead's brigade that was in front of the today. In one case, six rehelded lead leave to

We had very brisk picket firing last night in front of a point half a mile north of Fair Oaks Station. Our side sustained no damage. This morning everything is quiet again.

It is reported by deserters that heavy reinforce ments have been sent from Richmond to Jackson in the valley of the Shenandoah. Another correspondent writing under the same date says:

"I am positively assured, by parties who are reliably informed, that the life of the arch-traitor,
Jeff Davis, is in extreme danger, the rebels looking upon him with the utmost suspicion. It is ren averred that he was prevented, by an armed ree, from escaping out of Richmond. He is the oject of general distrust. Handbills, in every variety, are displayed all over the city, denounc-ing Jet Davis, and applying to him ridiculou-and approbrious epithets. The rebels declare i is the intention of Davis to desert them. Nu merous persons have been arrested and confined for rebelling agains the authorities in Rich-

The Pacific Railroad bill passed the Senate today, with five negative votes. The main route which it fixes is to commence at a point on the 100th meridian of longitude within the Territory of Nebraska. Of the branches, one commences at Sioux City; another at another point on the western boundary of Lows, which will probably be at or near Omaha City or the mouth of the Platte river; both of these branches to be constructed by the Union Pacific Company, which constructs the main road. The Kansas branch, commencing opposite Kansas City, is to be constructed by a Kansas company, and with this branch the Hannibal and St. Joseph road is authorized to form a connection. The main road is to run by the most direct and practicable route to be located, subject to the approval of the President. By the House bill, the road was to commence on the 102d meridian, and the terminus was not necessarily within the Territory of Nebraska, but probably the House will agree to the Senate amendment. There is little deubt of the final passage of the bill substantially as passed by the Senate.

OFFICIAL. LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES, Passed at the Second Session of the Thirty-seve [Public-No. 87.] AN ACT providing for the selection of jurors to serve in the several courts in the District of Columbia.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representations of the Senate of America in

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be the duty of the Register of Washington city, and of the respective clerks of the city of Georgetown and the Levy Court of Washington county, in the District of Columbia, within one month after the passage of this act, and on or before the first day of February in each year thereaf er, to make a list of such of the white male citizens, tax-payers, residing within their respective jurisdictions, as they shall judge best qualified to serve as jurors in the courts of the said District, in which lists may be included, in the discretion of the officer making the same, the names of such qualified lists may be included, in the discretion of the omcer making the same, the names of such qualified persons as were on the list of the previous year but did not serve as jurors, and the lists thus made by the register and clerks aforesaid shall be kept by them, respectively, and be delivered over to their successors in effice.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the officers aforesaid shall select from the list of the register of Washington city the names of four hundred persons, from that of the clerk of Georgetown eighty persons, and from that of the clerk of the eighty persons, and from that of the clerk of the levy court forty persons, which proportion, after the year eighteen hundred and sixty-three, may the year eighteen hundred and sixty-three, may be varied from year to year according to the increase or decrease of population in the respective jurisdictions, by order of the judges of the circuit court of Washington county.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the Mayors of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, all judicial officers, salaried officers of the Government of the United States, commissioners of police, and those connected with the police or fire department, counsellors and attorneys at law, ministers of the gospel, and priests of every denomination, practising physicians and surgeons, keepers of hospitals, asylums, almshouses, or other charitable institutions created by or under the laws relating to the District of Columbia, captains and masters and other persons employed on the laws relating to the District Columbia, exp-tains and masters and other persons employed on vessels navigating the waters of said District, and keepers of public ferries, shall be exempt from jury duty, and their names shall not be placed in the lists aforesaid.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the parses elected from said lists shall be written on the lists aforesaid.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the Sate purisdiction has been re-established in Morgan and Berkley counties, and will shortly be extended to Jefferson and Frederick.

The election in Berkley last month gave 800 majority for Governor Pierpont.

The counties and similar pieces of paper, which shall be so folded or rolled up that the names cannot be seen, and placed in a box, to be provided by the register and clerks aforesaid, which box shall be sealed, and after being thoroughly shaken, shall be delivered to the clerk of the circuit court of Washington county for safe keeping. shall be delivered to the clerk of the circuit court of Washington county for safe keeping.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted. That the said register and clerks, and the clerk of the circuit court, shall, at least ten days before the commencement of each term of the circuit or of the criminal court, meet at the City Hall in Washington city, and then and there the clerk of the circuit court shall publicly break the seal of said box and proceed to draw therefrom the names of so many persons as are required; and if the jury about to be drawn is intended for service in the criminal court, the twenty-three persons whose The first instance of a colored man abetting the enemy occurred to-day.
